RECORD U.S. SEED EXPORTS VALUED AT $107 MILLION IN 1973-74

Exports of U.S. seeds were up 41 percent in value in 1973-74, establishing a new record. The volume of seeds exported, up 5 percent, was also at a record level. Sharply higher prices, especially for forage crop seeds and seed corn, accounted for about 88 percent of the increased value.

Grass and legume seeds, valued at $53 million, accounted for nearly one-half of total seed exports. Export prices for nearly all of these seeds were high; some such as the ryegrass, Kentucky bluegrass, and timothy grass seeds, were on the average from 75 to 110 percent higher than prices a year earlier. Reduced crops of grass seeds, especially ryegrass, in the United Kingdom and lower production in some other European countries, such as West Germany and France, stimulated import demand for ryegrass and other grass seeds. In some countries the demand for grass seeds and legume seeds was strong due to expanding acreage in pastures and reseeding. This was the case in Australia, where pastures and forage seed production had been neglected during a period of low wool production and drought, and in South Africa, where the 1972 drought had reduced seed output. Drought in New Zealand reduced production and export of forage crop seeds.

The principal markets for forage (grass and legume) seeds were the European Community ($14.8 million), Canada ($11.7 million), Japan ($9.3 million), and Mexico ($6.1 million). The leading individual markets within the EC-9, in order of importance, were West Germany, France, Netherlands, the United Kingdom, and Italy. France required increased imports of forage seeds owing to low domestic production in 1973; Italy imported less seed due in part to severe import restrictions because of balance of trade problems. Bluegrass seed exports were down nearly 50 percent, especially to Canada, Netherlands, and France. Exports of more fescue and perennial ryegrass seed to the latter two apparently replaced the bluegrass seed. Alfalfa and annual ryegrass seed accounted for most of the increase of 3.7 million pounds of forage seeds shipped to Mexico in 1973-74.

Vegetable seed exports increased one-third in value to $19.3 million in 1973-74; 23 percent of the increase was due to larger volume shipped. While exports to the EC-9 were down, especially to West Germany and Netherlands, Hungary and Yugoslavia represented new markets. Exports to South America (mainly Brazil and Venezuela) were up, and new markets were found or expanded in Asia, (Iraq, Iran, People's Republic of China, Republic of China, and Thailand). Japanese purchases of U.S. vegetable seeds increased 60 percent in volume.

Seed corn exports rose sharply from $6.7 million to $11.4 million with volume increasing 26 percent and value 70 percent. Larger quantities were shipped to Canada, Mexico, Yugoslavia, Hungary, and Spain. EC countries took less U.S. seed corn in 1973-74.

Exports of grain sorghum seed increased slightly to nearly $7.0 million. The major market is Mexico, followed by Brazil, France, and the Soviet Union.

The volume of bean seed exports fell by one-third in 1973-74 while that of pea seeds rose slightly. Most of the reduction in bean seed exports was in shipments to Mexico, Netherlands, France, Switzerland and Spain. Mexico and Netherlands also took less pea seed, but Canada, France, Sweden, and Japan took more. Another major market, the United Kingdom, took about the same quantity as in 1972-73. "Other seed" exports were down about 10 percent, but owing to generally higher prices their value increased 21 percent.
